*Where we are relying on consent to process your Personal Data, you will have the right to withdraw your consent at any time in accordance with the “Your rights in relation to Personal Data and how you can exercise them” section below.

2. Who we share your Personal Data with, and why

Inside the Vitol group

We may need to share your Personal Data with other companies in the Vitol group for recruitment purposes. For example, your CV may be shared with HR staff in other offices and with management when relevant.

Outside the Vitol group

We may share Personal Data with third parties who perform certain business functions for us, such as:

- External contractors who conduct reference and background checks;
- External contractors who perform personality and psychometric tests as part of the recruitment process;
- Recruitment agencies;
- Service providers who provide IT support, communications services or administrative support;
- Our professional advisers (such as our legal advisers, our accountants, auditors and other professional advisers); and
- Regulatory authorities, courts, tribunals, government agencies or law enforcement agencies.

These third parties will process your Personal Data on our behalf (as our processor). Any third party with whom we share your Personal Data will have appropriate security standards in place to make sure your Personal Data is protected and we will enter into a written contract imposing appropriate security standards on them. We may also share your Personal Data with other third parties, as directed by you.

3. International Transfers of Personal Data

We may transfer your Personal Data outside the United Kingdom and the European Economic Area, including to other companies in the Vitol group, third-party service providers and partners, and we put adequate safeguards in place when we do so. When transferring Personal Data to countries that are not subject to an adequacy regulation or adequacy decision, we typically use standard contractual clauses approved by the applicable regulatory authority to ensure the ongoing protection of Personal Data.

4. Data retention

We only retain your Personal Data during and after your application and interview process for no longer than is necessary for the purposes for which the Personal Data is processed, or as otherwise required by applicable legal obligations.

We may retain your Personal Data for a longer period in the event of a complaint or if we reasonably believe there is a prospect of litigation in respect to our relationship with you. If we continue to retain your Personal Data in accordance with a legal obligation, any further processing of your data will be limited to compliance with such legal obligation.

If your application is unsuccessful, we will keep your Personal Data (including your CV) for a period of two years, following which time it will be deleted. If you would like us to delete your personal information after one year, please let us know.

If your application is successful, your Personal Data will be kept and transferred to the systems we administer for employees. We have a separate fair processing notice for employees, which will be provided to you.

5. Your rights in relation to your Personal Data and how you can exercise them

You have certain legal rights in relation to any Personal Data about you which we hold. These are detailed below. These rights are not absolute and are subject to certain limitations and qualifications. In certain cases we might ask for identity verification information so as to ensure that we are dealing with the correct person.

Your right	What does it mean?	Other details
Right to be informed	You have the right to be provided with clear, transparent, and easily understandable information about how we use your Personal Data and your rights. Therefore, we are providing you with the information in this notice.	N/A
Right of access	You have the right to obtain access to your Personal Data (if we are processing it), and certain other supplementary information (like the information provided in this Notice). This is so you are aware and can check that we are using your Personal Data in accordance with data protection law.	If possible, we request that you specify the type of information you would like to see. Your request may not impact the rights and freedoms of other people, e.g. privacy and confidentiality rights of other staff. Other exemptions may apply dependent on the information and context.
Right to data portability	You have the right to receive your Personal Data in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format and to request that this data is transmitted to another controller where this is technically feasible.	If you exercise this right, we request that you specify the type of information you would like to receive (and where we should send it) where possible to ensure that our disclosure is meeting your expectations. This right only applies if the processing is based on your consent or for the performance of a contract with you and when the processing is carried out by automated means (i.e. not for paper records). It covers only the Personal Data that has been provided to us yourself.

Rights in relation to inaccurate personal or incomplete data	You are entitled to have your Personal Data corrected if it is inaccurate or incomplete.	If possible, we encourage you to notify us of any changes regarding your Personal Data as soon as they occur, including changes to your contact details, telephone number, immigration status. Alternatively, you can make updates yourself using any available self-help tools. This right only applies to your own Personal Data. When exercising this right, we recommend you be as specific as possible with your request, however, this will not impact your right to rectification.
The right to restrict processing	You have rights to 'block' or suppress further use of your Personal Data. When processing is restricted, we can still store your Personal Data, but may not use it further.	We keep lists of people who have asked for further use of their Personal Data to be 'blocked' to make sure the restriction is respected in future.
The right to object	You have the right to object to the use of your Personal Data where we are processing your Personal Data to pursue our or a third party's legitimate interests, or as a basis for direct marketing. Where you object to us using your Personal Data for direct marketing purposes, we must stop. For objections related to processing for other purposes, we will need to stop using your Personal Data unless we can demonstrate compelling legitimate grounds for the processing which override your interests, rights and freedoms, or we need to use the Personal Data to establish, exercise or defend legal claims.	As stated above, this right applies where our processing of your Personal Data is necessary for our legitimate interests. You can also object to our processing of your Personal Data for direct marketing purposes.
Right to erasure	This is also known as 'the right to be forgotten' and, basically, enables you to request the deletion or removal of your Personal Data where there is no compelling reason for us to keep using it, e.g. where your Personal Data is no longer needed for the purposes it was collected for, or where the relevant processing is unlawful.	This is not a general right to erasure; there are exceptions. We may not be in a position to erase your Personal Data, if for example, we need it to (i) comply with a legal obligation, or (ii) exercise or defend legal claims.
The right not to be subject to a decision based solely on automated processing, including profiling	You have the right not to have your Personal Data used to make solely automated decisions about you that have legal or similarly significant effects on you. For example, you have the right not to have your Personal Data used to create a profile of you that automated decisions are later based on without there being any human involvement in that processing.	N/A
The right to withdraw consent at any time	If you have given your consent to anything we do with your Personal Data, you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time (although if you do so, it does not mean that anything we have done with your Personal Data with your consent up to that point is unlawful) as per the "Consent" section below. This includes the right to withdraw consent to us using your Personal Data for marketing purposes.	If you withdraw your consent, this will only take effect for future processing.

6. Contact Details

If you have any questions about this Notice, or about the use of your Personal Data or you wish to exercise any of the rights set out above, please contact the HR person dealing with your recruitment, or alternatively get in touch via the contact us page at <https://www.vitol.com/contact/>

Data Protection Authorities

You have the right to lodge a complaint about the way we handle or process your Personal Data with your relevant national data protection regulator. See details of applicable data protection regulators below.
